

Intactile

Intactile has considerable experience in providing advice on crises and threats, both global and localised.

Our resilience solutions focus on a collaborative and innovative approach to guide tactical, operational and strategic decisions.

With expertise in diverse threat management and various environments, we provide advice to individuals and organisations on how to enhance resilience for their people, assets, information, operations and reputation.

Felice Joseph Iannazzo
Founder and Managing Director

Felice has operated in the intelligence, security and resilience space since 2006.

This has included work across varied sectors including construction and property development; financial and professional services; critical infrastructure; and domestic and international sporting venues and events.

Prior to founding Intactile in 2012, Felice worked within the Federal Attorney-General's Department focusing on threats to national security, including terrorism.

